THE COURSE MAP

The path in levels -- plan v1

Your question (11:17): real lessons zigzag -- a little rhythm, a little note reading -- so should the course really go stage by stage, all of pitch before any rhythm? Your OK (11:19) to the answer: the house's floors become levels. Every floor mixes playing, pitch, rhythm and music rooms. Inside a floor the order is free; the room numbers show a suggested zigzag. A room that needs another one says so, but nothing is ever locked. A beginner now meets the crotchet in the first lessons, long before three ledger lines.

Each room teaches its floor's part. Its Lesson Book covers what fits that floor; the harder parts stay in its drill's higher levels (marked with their grade) or move to the room where they fit -- strong and weak beats to Time signatures, the natural to the new room Accidentals, three ledger lines to a Grade 2 stretch.

The five floors

1	First lessons (Posture & hand shape, Keyboard patterns, Pulse & counting, The musical alphabet, Notes & rests, Reading the staff) -- Sitting well, the keys and their letters, a steady beat, the first note values and the staff.
2	Reading and counting (The whole staff, Time signatures, Steps & skips, Loud & soft, Tones & semitones, Pitch & range) -- Both staves, bar lines and time signatures, the first tunes, loud and soft, half and whole steps, high and low.
3	Going further (Tempo, Rhythm patterns, Ledger lines, Scales, Accidentals (new), The piano's story) -- Speed, quavers and dots, ledger lines, scales, accidentals, and the piano's own story.
4	Keys and chords (Key signatures, Signs, Intervals, Chords, Composers, Melody & phrasing) -- Key signatures, signs, intervals and chords, the composers, and how a tune is shaped.
5	Shaping music (Musical form, Musical terms, Styles & genres) -- How pieces are built, the Italian terms, and the styles of music.

AMEB: every room lists the grades its parts belong to. AMEB Preliminary is complete at the end of floor 4 (scales, key signatures, intervals and tonic triads of C, G and F are Preliminary). Floors carry no grade names, so nobody skips a floor by mistake.

How to answer: reply with codes, e.g. "C1 yes, C2 levels only, C3 ok". Pages: the house (2) · the 27 rooms (3-4) · what changes (5) · your decisions (6).

The house with level floors

Drawn by the app's own code. Ticks: the six chapters that have their books. Clara stands in room 11 (Tones & semitones, drafted). The line under the house now says "Start · floor by floor, any room first".

The 27 rooms, in the suggested order

"After" = the rooms it needs first (numbers in this list); never a lock. The order inside a floor is free.

27	Styles & genres	about	Textures and style traits.	general knowledge	23

Checked by a second reviewer

A separate reviewer checked the order, every "after", the floors and the AMEB column against what each chapter teaches today. Fixed from its list:

- The quaver is Preliminary, so the quaver pair joins Notes & rests (room 5).
- Tones & semitones comes after The whole staff (7): its staff page reads notes in both lands.
- Pulse and Notes & rests cut back to what floor 1 can do. Strong and weak beats, bars, and rests on the staff go to Time signatures (8). The repeat sign and the tie across a bar line also go there.
- Bar lines taught once (room 8, not again in Signs).
- AMEB column corrected: intervals by number and tonic triads are Preliminary; the bass clef is Music Craft Grade 1; instrument families go with Pitch & range.
- No grade names on the floors.
- The four "Know the music" rooms spread across floors 2-5, so every floor is mixed (C3).
- The line under the house no longer says "one room at a time".

What changes

1. The app: The map, the books shelf, "Chapter n" in every book and the teacher's Chapters tab all follow the new order. "Next" points to the lowest unfinished room on your floor. A room opened before its "after" rooms shows one gentle line, e.g. "The whole staff first?" -- no lock. The new room Accidentals gets its own drill entry; its book comes when its turn comes.
2. The books: The six finished books keep their pages. Their chapter numbers change: The whole staff becomes 7, Ledger lines 15, The musical alphabet 4, Reading the staff 6. Places that name another chapter by number ("Chapter 4's D", "the letter names come in chapter 3", "Next: Chapter 5") name it by its room instead. Ledger lines' third ladder becomes a Grade 2 stretch in its Teacher copy.
3. The guides: The guides' front page and the Workbook's colouring house show the new floors. "Chapter 6 of 26" becomes "Chapter 15 of 27" on the guide pages.
4. The drills: When their books are made, the first drill levels of Scales and Key signatures become C, G and F (today they start with C G D A E and "up to 4 sharps or flats").

What does not change

The look of the books and the house, the cast, the Book rules, the guide pages' words, the drill levels of the finished chapters.

C · Your decisions

C1 The five floors and the 27 rooms as in the table, with the new room Accidentals (16).
Rec yes.

C2 Floor names: (a) First lessons · Reading and counting · Going further · Keys and chords · Shaping music (첫 레슨 · 읽고 세기 · 더 멀리 · 조와 화음 · 음악의 모양); (b) just "Level 1-5"; (c) your own.
Rec (a). The plaque already shows the number.

C3 The "Know the music" rooms: spread over the floors (Pitch & range on 2, The piano's story on 3, Composers on 4, Styles on 5), or kept together on a top floor marked "any time".
Rec spread, so every floor is mixed.

C4 Numbers: one running number 1-27 in the suggested order; free order inside a floor; "next" is the lowest unfinished number on your floor.
Rec yes.

C5 "After" rooms: shown to the teacher, and as one gentle line when a student opens a room early. Never locked.
Rec yes.

C6 Each room's book teaches its floor's part. Harder parts stay in the drill's higher levels with their grade, or move to the room where they fit.
Rec yes.

C7 The six finished books: new numbers, references by room name, "Next" lines changed; nothing else.
Rec do it in one phase after your OK, with the map.

C8 Room names short enough for six in a row: room 11 says "Tones & semitones" (not "Sharps & flats"); Korean Steps & skips "걸음·건너뛰기" (today's "이웃음·건너뛰기" is cut off).
Rec yes.

C9 The next books, in path order: finish Tones & semitones (11, drafted), then floor 1's Pulse (3) and Notes & rests (5), then floor 2's Time signatures (8), Steps & skips (9), Loud & soft (10), Pitch & range (12) -- so a beginner can do floors 1-2 with books.
Rec yes.

C10 Exams: a separate AMEB checklist by grade (Preliminary, Grade 1 ...), built from each room's AMEB parts, for students preparing an exam.
Rec yes, later.
