PART VIII · PLAYING AND LISTENING · 3

Sight-reading

Sight-reading is playing music you have never seen. The secret is a short look first, then keeping the beat going whatever happens: a wrong note passes, a stop is heard by everyone.

THE SECRET

Look before you play, then never stop: the beat matters more than any note.

Thirty seconds first: one sharp (G major), 4/4, starts on G, steps up in a pattern.

Look first, then never stop

The thirty-second scan

CHECK	LOOK FOR
1 key	sharps or flats at the start
2 time	the time signature: count a bar before you start
3 clefs and notes	the first note in each hand; the lowest and highest
4 rhythm	the trickiest rhythm: tap it
5 patterns	steps, skips, repeats, sequences
6 marks	dynamics, slurs, speed words

EXAMPLE 1

What do you check first?

?

1 The key: how many sharps? 2 The time: how many beats? 3 The F in bar 2: F or F♯?

G major, 3/4. The F in bar 2 is F♯, from the key signature. Count “1 2 3” and go.

EXAMPLE 2

A wrong note in bar 2: now what?

Stop and fix it, or keep going? ?

1 Is the beat still going? 2 What does a listener notice more? 3 So?

Keep going: catch the next beat. A stop is heard far more than a wrong note.

PART VIII · PLAYING AND LISTENING · 3 · CONTINUED

EXAMPLE 3

Spot the pattern

1. Bar 1: what shape?
2. Bar 2: the same shape, where?
3. So, how much do you really need to read?

A sequence: bar 2 is bar 1 a step higher. Read the shape, not every note.

GAME

Scan order

1 rhythm

2 key

3 time

4 patterns

Put the four checks in the order of the scan.

Answer: key · time · rhythm · patterns.

TRY IT · 10 SECONDS

One new piece a day.

Pick something easy: scan for thirty seconds, then play it once, slowly, without stopping. Only then go back.

HOW TO

Read ahead

1. While you play one bar, let your eyes move to the next.
2. Practise it: cover each bar with a card as you play it.
3. Read shapes (steps, skips, chords), not single notes.

THINK OF IT Sight-reading is like reading aloud: you look a few words ahead, and if you trip on one, the sentence goes on.

TRAP

- × Choosing a speed you cannot keep: sight-read slowly.
- × Looking down at your hands: keep your eyes on the music.
- × Skipping the scan: thirty seconds of looking saves many wrong notes.

SEE ALSO

Reading the notes p. 30 · Repetition and sequence p. 147

PRACTISE IT

Online: Sight-reading trainer